

WAC/WID: Online Program: Active Learning, Critical Thinking, and Writing

The Online Program invites faculty or staff to engage in an online learning environment as a cohort during the spring semester. Participants read and discuss John Bean's text, Engaging Ideas, via a Falcon Online course. Bean's text is used as the pedagogical framework for the WAC/WID program, and faculty participants are encouraged to also participate in the Summer Teaching & Learning Retreat in order to workshop applying Bean's approach to their own classes and assignments.

Where do I access the material?

If you sign up for this program, you will be provided a hard copy of the text, and you will be enrolled in an online learning environment.

Is this program completely online?

While the majority of the discussions over the semester happen in the online environment, ideally, we like to have everyone meet face-to-face three times throughout the semester.

Who facilitates the online environment?

Faculty Fellows and faculty members who have completed this portion of the program are eligible to facilitate and receive a stipend for doing so. Additionally, writing center staff may facilitate.

If you are interested in participating in the DSC-UCF Writing Center's WAC/WID program, contact Jessica Lipsey at Jessica.lipsey@daytonastate.edu

For more information about the DSC-UCF Writing Center's WAC/WID program, go to www.daytonastate.edu/cwc/wacwid.html

