Daytona State College does not tolerate any form of sexual misconduct on College property or at any College-sponsored function. Survivors who report sexual misconduct are guaranteed rights and assistance in finding help and resources, even if the reported misconduct does not occur on College property or at a College-sponsored function. Daytona State College Policy 3.11 and Procedure 311 address the prohibition and College response to sexual misconduct and sexual harassment.

The term sexual misconduct refers to sexual assault or any unwelcome behavior of a sexual nature committed without consent, by force, intimidation, coercion or manipulation. Sexual misconduct also includes domestic violence, dating violence and stalking.

These acts are always considered crimes by Daytona State College whether or not they are considered a crime by the law enforcement jurisdiction in which they occur. If you report any act of sexual misconduct, you have rights guaranteed under Daytona State College policy and a federal law entitled the Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act, (commonly referred to as the Clery Act). These rights are listed in this document and will be provided to anyone who reports sexual misconduct to the College no matter where the sexual misconduct occurs. You may also learn more in the Daytona State College Annual Security Report and Campus Safety Guide available online at https://www.daytonastate.edu/campus_safety/security_report/ or by requesting a copy through the DSC Campus Safety Department at (386) 506-4444, or by mail at Daytona State College Campus Safety, Bailey Hall (Building 540), 1200 W. Int’l Speedway Blvd. Daytona Beach, FL 32114.

Incidents of sexual misconduct, as well as any form of sexual harassment, are considered sex-based discrimination, which is prohibited by Daytona State College and Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972. Any Title IX violation, including sexual misconduct and sexual harassment, should be reported to the Title IX Coordinator. The Daytona State College Title IX Coordinator is Lonnie Thompson, Director of Equity and Inclusion, Wetherell Center (Bldg. 100), room 316, (386) 506-3973.
SEXUAL ASSAULT includes any sexual act directed against another person, forcibly and/or against that person’s will, or not forcibly or against the person’s will where the victim is incapable of giving consent, including forcible rape, forcible sodomy, sexual assault with an object and forcible fondling. Sexual assault includes unlawful, non-forcible sex offenses, including incest (non-forcible sexual intercourse between persons who are related to each other within the degrees wherein marriage is prohibited by law) and statutory rape (non-forcible sexual intercourse with a person who is under the statutory age of consent).

CONSENT is an intelligent, voluntary, informed decision by someone capable of making such a decision. Consent is based on choice. In order for there to be consent in a sexual situation, there must be an affirmative statement or action by each participant. Consent does exist if coercion, threats, intimidation, or physical force are used. Consent is not the lack of resistance. There is no duty to fight off a sexual aggressor. Consent can be withdrawn at any time, as long as the withdrawal is clearly communicated by the person withdrawing consent through words or actions. If someone is mentally or physically incapacitated or impaired such that they are temporarily or permanently incapable of appraising the sexual situation or controlling their own conduct, there can be no consent in the situation. This includes such impairment or incapacitation resulting from the consumption of alcohol or other drugs. Whether a person has used a position of authority or influence to take advantage of another person will be a consideration in determining whether consent exists in a sexual situation. A person is legally incapable of giving consent if he or she is:

- Under 18 years of age or;
- Incapacitated or impaired as described above by alcohol or other drugs or;
- Developmentally disabled or;
- Temporarily or permanently mentally or physically unable to do so.

RELATIONSHIP ABUSE AND STALKING are prohibited on any Daytona State College campus, property controlled by the College or College-sponsored event. Relationship Abuse consists of a pattern of abusive or coercive behavior used to exert power and control over a current or former intimate partner. Abuse can be emotional, psychological, financial, sexual, or physical, and can include threats, isolation and intimidation. Relationship abuse includes domestic violence and dating violence.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE is a felony or misdemeanor crime of violence committed by a current or former spouse or intimate partner of the victim, by a person with whom the victim shares a child in common, by a person who is cohabitating with or has cohabited with the victim as a spouse, by a person similarly situated to a spouse of the victim under the domestic or family violence laws of the jurisdiction receiving grant monies under the Violence Against Women Act, or by any other person against an adult or youth victim who is protected from that person’s acts under the domestic or family violence laws of the jurisdiction. Domestic violence is a crime defined in Fla. Stat. § 741.28 and ss. 741.28-741.31.
DATING VIOLENCE is violence committed by a person who is or has been in a social relationship of a romantic or intimate nature with the victim. The existence of such a relationship is determined based on statements given by the person reporting the violence and consideration of the length of the relationship, the type of relationship and the frequency of interaction between the persons involved in the relationship. Dating violence includes, but is not limited to, sexual or physical abuse or the threat of such abuse. Dating Violence is a crime defined in Fla. Stat. § 784.046 (1) (d).

STALKING is a course of conduct directed at a specific person that would cause a reasonable person to fear for his or her safety or the safety of others, or suffer substantial emotional distress. A “reasonable person” under the definition of stalking means a reasonable person under similar circumstances. Acts of stalking may include acts in which the stalker, either directly, indirectly, or through a third party, follows, monitors, observes, threatens, communicates to or about a person, or interferes with a person’s property. Stalking may include communication through electronic communication such as text messages or social media (“cyberstalking”). Stalking is a crime defined in Fla. Stat. § 784.048.

SEXUAL HARASSMENT includes unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other visual, verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature when it is implicitly or explicitly suggested that submission to or rejection of the conduct will be a factor in academic or employment decisions or evaluations or permissions to participate in a college activity OR the conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual’s academic or work performance by creating an intimidating or hostile academic, work or student living environment.

Immediate Steps to Take for Survivors of Sexual Misconduct

IF YOU OR SOMEONE YOU KNOW IS IN IMMEDIATE DANGER, CALL 911.

IF YOU ARE A SURVIVOR/VICTIM OF A RECENT SEXUAL ASSAULT:
• Get to a safe place
  - Immediate safety is the first priority. If you or someone you know is in danger, you should call 911. Stay on the phone as long as you can until help arrives. Remember that the police will help you whether or not you choose to prosecute the assailant. Call a trusted friend or family member for support and/or the victim-assistance services offered by community or law enforcement agencies.
• Get medical attention
  - A medical examination is to check for physical injury, the presence of sexually transmitted disease or pregnancy as a result of the assault. Forensic evidence can be collected during a medical examination, which will aid in the police investigation and legal proceedings; however, if a victim/survivor chooses not to have forensic evidence collected, health-care providers will still treat injuries and address concerns such as pregnancy and sexually transmitted diseases.
• Preserve evidence
  - Avoid bathing, douching, smoking, changing your clothing, cleaning the bed/linen/area where the assault occurred, or altering the crime scene.
  - Some of these actions may be the first thing you want to do, but you may be destroying evidence that could aid in prosecuting the assailant and obtaining a protection order.
  - In Florida, evidence may be collected even if you choose not to make a report to law enforcement.
  - Save and document all communication with the assailant and/or related to the assault such as texts, social media messages and photos.

SAFETY WHILE LIVING IN A VIOLENT HOME AND/OR PREPARING TO LEAVE:

- Tell a TRUSTED friend about the violence and have them call the police when violence erupts.
- Establish a code word for your children, trusted friends and family to call for help when you use your code word.
- When an argument erupts, move to a safer room – kitchens are not safe!
- Open a savings account in your own name.
- Leave money, extra keys, copies of important papers and extra clothes with someone you trust, so you can leave quickly. Do not leave these items in your car.
- Determine who would let you stay with them or lend you money. Keep in mind the availability of domestic violence shelters.
- Plan a safe place to leave pets. http://www.hushpuppyhaven.org
- Keep the Domestic Abuse Council, Inc. phone number (386-255-2102) close at all times (if this is safe to do) and keep some change or a calling card on you at all times for emergency phone calls. Crisis hotline numbers are in the front cover of Volusia County phone books. The statewide hotline number is: 1-800-500-1119.
- Review your safety plan as often as possible in order to plan the safest way to leave.
- Obtain an Injunction for Protection (Domestic Abuse Council, Inc. has court advocates who can assist you through this process).

SAFETY WHEN LIVING ALONE IN YOUR HOME:

- Change the locks on doors and windows.
- Install security mechanisms, such as window locks, better lighting, smoke detectors, fire extinguishers, cameras.
- In rural areas where only the mailbox may be visible from the street, cover the box with brightly colored paper or paint so that police can more easily locate the home.
- Obtain an Injunction for Protection; keep it with you at all times. Even if you have left the state where the injunction was originally granted, the unexpired injunction is valid in any state in the country.
- Call the police if your abuser violates the Injunction for Protection order.
- Inform neighbors and your landlord that the abuser no longer lives with you and that they should call the police if they see him near your home.

SAFETY ON THE JOB AND IN PUBLIC:

- Decide who at work you will tell. This should include security persons. Provide a photo of your abuser to be used for identification. If you have an Injunction for Protection, you may want to make sure that your employer and/or security at your job has a copy.
- Arrange to have someone screen your phone calls if possible.
- When you leave work, have someone escort you to your car. Use different routes to go home from work. Also vary the times, and use different routes to go places you visit on a regular basis, such as church, the grocery store, school, etc.

SAFETY WHEN CHILDREN ARE INVOLVED:

- If you have children, rehearse an escape route and a safe place for the children to go if there is an emergency (if violence is occurring in the home, if there’s a fire, etc.).
- Teach the children how to call the police or a family member if they are taken by the abuser.
- Talk to schools and childcare providers about who has permission to pick up the children, and develop other special provisions to protect the child. If you have an Injunction for Protection that includes the children, make sure that your child’s school or day care provider has a copy.
- Find a lawyer knowledgeable about family violence to explore custody, visitation and divorce provisions that protect the children and yourself.
Stalking is unpredictable and dangerous. No two stalking situations are alike. There are no guarantees that what works for one person will work for another, yet you can take steps to increase your safety.

- If you are in immediate danger, call 911.
- Trust your instincts. Don’t downplay the danger. If you feel you are unsafe, you probably are.
- Take threats seriously. Danger generally is higher when the stalker talks about suicide or murder, or when a victim tries to leave or end the relationship.
- The above listed crisis hotlines for sexual assault or domestic violence can help you devise a safety plan, give you information about local laws, weigh options such as seeking a protection order and refer you to other services.
- It is best to contact the police. Every state, including Florida, has stalking laws, and the stalker may have broken other laws by assaulting and threatening you or damaging your property. Daytona State College will help you in making a police report.
- Get an Injunction for Protection (commonly referred to as a restraining order). Daytona State College officials can advise you on how to obtain an Injunction for Protection. Find out about obtaining a restraining order in the Resources and Assistance for Survivors of Sexual Misconduct in this document on pages 16 & 17.
- Develop a safety plan, including things like changing your routine, arranging a place to stay and having a friend or relative go places with you. Also, decide in advance what to do if the stalker shows up at your home, work, school or somewhere else. Tell people how they can help you. Find out more about developing a safety plan at https://www.victimsofcrime.org/our-programs/stalking-resource-center/help-for-victims/stalking-safety-planning
- Initially, you may tell the person that you wish to be left alone if you don’t believe you are in danger; however, once you have made that clear, or if you believe you are in danger, don’t communicate with the stalker or respond to attempts to contact you.
- Keep evidence of the stalking. When the stalker follows you or contacts you, write down the time, date and place. Keep emails, text messages, phone messages, letters or notes. Photograph anything of yours the stalker damages and any injuries the stalker causes. Ask witnesses to write down what they saw. Keep an incident log recording for each incident, including a description of the incident, the date, time, location, witness names and contact information, police report number and responding police officers’ names and badge numbers. http://www.victimsofcrime.org/docs/src/stalking-incident-log_pdf.pdf?sfvrsn=4
- Tell family, friends, roommates and co-workers about the stalking and seek their support.
- Tell Campus Safety. They can provide safety escorts while you are on campus. Tell security at your job. If you are in immediate danger, call 911.
- Report the stalking to the police, Campus Safety, or a college official as soon as possible.
- If the person communicates with you, be clear that you wish to be left alone.
- Document the date, time, location and a detailed description of each incident.
- For evidence, save any communications such as text messages, emails, letters, notes and gifts or other objects sent to you.
PROCEDURES FOR REPORTING SEXUAL MISCONDUCT

You may contact Daytona State College Campus Safety 24 hours a day, 7 days a week at (386) 506-4444. Campus Safety will respond immediately to emergencies.

Please note that Campus Safety officers are not sworn law enforcement officers and are not empowered as such. If you are in immediate danger and need law enforcement assistance, call 911.

If you are a survivor/victim of sexual misconduct, you have several options for reporting. It is your choice whether or not to report sexual misconduct to law enforcement. You may also choose make a report anonymously. Daytona State College encourages all survivors of sexual misconduct to make a report with law enforcement and Campus Safety. Daytona State College officials will assist you in contacting law enforcement should you wish to do so. Reporting the incident to law enforcement will result in a more effective response and investigation.

Law enforcement personnel are trained to understand that survivors of sexual misconduct may be dealing with emotions such as guilt, embarrassment and fear, and are trained to handle these situations with sensitivity and compassion. Also be aware that making a report with law enforcement is not the same as prosecution, and you may determine later whether or not you want to go through with prosecution. If you choose not to make a report with law enforcement, you still have rights and will receive assistance from the College.

CAMPUS SECURITY AUTHORITIES

It is understood that survivors of sexual misconduct may be reluctant to speak to a police officer or Campus Safety officer; however, they may feel more comfortable reporting to a college official they know such as a coach, a faculty advisor to a student group, or a dean of student activities. Campus Security Authorities (CSA's), are College officials who have significant responsibility for student and campus activities and the authority and the duty to take action or respond to particular issues on behalf of the College. To encourage the reporting of sexual misconduct and to ensure that reports are handled correctly, Campus Security Authorities are trained to take reports of sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence and stalking. Survivors who choose to report sexual misconduct to any Campus Security Authority or College official will receive rights and assistance from the College. You can find more information about Campus Security Authorities at http://www.DaytonaState.edu/campus_safety/Campus_Security_Authorities.html

TIPS FOR REPORTING CRIMES OR EMERGENCIES

• Don't hang up - Stay on the line unless doing so places you in immediate danger. 911 operators are trained to get as much information as possible to determine the nature of the problem and its seriousness. On emergency calls, the operator already has sent the information to a dispatcher while continuing to ask additional questions. Stay on the line and answer the operator’s questions until he or she terminates the call.

• Be ready to give your location - Learn the campus, especially the areas you frequent. Take note of parking lot names (e.g. Orange C) building numbers and landmarks that will help a law enforcement officer or Campus Safety Officer find you.

• Provide as much detail as possible - When describing a person, try to take note of age, height, weight, hair color, clothing description, mode and direction of travel. When describing a vehicle, try to include the make, model, color, license plate number, etc. If your property is stolen, provide a complete description, times you left the property and discovered it missing, serial and model numbers (if known), estimated value and any other information that could assist in recovery.

If the situation changes before help arrives, call 911 or Campus Safety again and update the operator.

CONFIDENTIALITY

Daytona State College will maintain the confidentiality of a person who reports sexual misconduct to the extent permissible by law. Measures protecting your confidentiality include the following:

• The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA). Information protected by FERPA will not be released without a student’s permission. For more information on FERPA, visit http://www2.ed.gov/policy/gen/guid/fpco/ferpa/index.html.

• Privileged and confidential conversations with Daytona State College staff members who are investigating a report sexual misconduct or providing services to the victim/survivor are kept confidential, but information about the nature, date, time, and general location of the incident of sexual misconduct, excluding the identity of the victim/survivor must be shared with relevant administrators. Information is shared with the Title IX coordinator, and in some cases law enforcement, so that action can be taken for reasons of safety. In planning any response, the wishes of the person reporting sexual misconduct are given full consideration.

• Confidential reports and conversations with Campus Security Authorities and the Title IX coordinator must maintain confidentially at the survivor's/victim's request with some exceptions. The Campus Security Authority or Title IX coordinator must weigh the confidentiality request against other factors, including whether the victim is a minor, the seriousness of the conduct and the increased risk that the alleged perpetrator will commit additional acts of violence against the victim or others. Please note that if a person reporting sexual misconduct insists that her or his identity is kept confidential, a full investigation and disciplinary action by the College may not be possible.

• At the survivor's/victim's request, we will exclude the identifying information from written reports of sexual misconduct.

• Florida law allows for conversations with law enforcement to remain confidential. Police reports with personally identifiable information removed may be available to the public upon request.

• Privileged and confidential conversations with professional, licensed counselors, pastoral counselors and health-care providers are confidential and, except in rare or extreme circumstances, no information will be shared without your explicit permission.

• You have specific rights regarding disciplinary procedures. See the Disciplinary Procedures for Sexual Misconduct section of this document.

Please note that the outcome of any institutional disciplinary hearing, as a result of an allegation of a sexual offense, must be provided to both the accuser and the accused. Release of this information does not violate FERPA and is required by the Clery Act.

Daytona State College disciplinary proceedings include an administrative meeting, disciplinary hearing and student appeal via an administrative review with the Vice Presidents of Enrollment, Student Development & Academic Affairs. Depending on the circumstances, the Campus Safety Director, Deputy Director and the Judicial Affairs Officer will review the complaint to determine the appropriate proceeding. All disciplinary proceedings will include a prompt, fair and impartial process from the initial investigation to the final result and will provide the accuser and the accused with the same opportunities to have others present during any institutional disciplinary proceeding, including the opportunity to be accompanied to any related meeting or proceeding by the advisor of their choice.

In cases of sexual misconduct, disciplinary proceedings will be conducted by officials who receive annual training on:

- How to conduct an investigation and hearing process that protects the safety of victims and promotes accountability.
Rights Associated with the Disciplinary Process

  - is consistent with Daytona State College policies and transparent to the accuser and accused;
  - includes timely notice of meetings at which the accuser or accused, or both, may be present; and
  - provides timely and equal access to the accuser, the accused and appropriate officials to any information that will be used during informal and formal disciplinary meetings and hearings.

- Disciplinary proceedings will be conducted by officials who do not have a conflict of interest or bias for or against the accuser or the accused.
