

Faculty in Residence: Student Support Goal Opportunity

Fulfill your annual Student Support Goal through on-site collaboration with full-time academic support staff, writing specialists, peer tutors, librarians, and career counselors.

Have an idea for developing an activity or resource to support your teaching? Just looking for some inspiration? Learn how the academic support services—the Academic Support Center, College Writing Center, and Library Services—can support you and your students. As part of your weekly residency, you will work to develop an activity or resource you can share with our students and colleagues.

Projects might include:

- Developing a writing and/or research assignment for your class
- Creating an InfoGuide in your discipline or for a specific course
- Planning and hosting a scholarly event for students and colleagues
- Designing study aids for your students
- Preparing a discipline specific or skill development workshop

Getting Started

Schedule a window of time to be in the ASC, Library, or Writing Center, just like you would when volunteering to tutor in these spaces on a weekly basis. The time you spend with us is based on the number of office hours you have available.

- For Faculty with 1 office hour, a Student Support Goal should be a measurable student support commitment to be determined in coordination with faculty and chairs during the annual evaluation and goal setting process.
 - For Faculty with 5 or 6 office hours, a Student Support Goal should be measurable as a weekly or semester-long service commitment that totals about 1 hour per week or approximately 12 hours for each major semester (Spring and Fall).
 - For Faculty with 10 office hours, a Student Support Goal should be measurable as a weekly or semester-long service commitment that totals about 2 hours per week or approximately 24 hours for each major semester (Spring and Fall).

This is a great opportunity to learn what DSC's academic support areas have to offer and create tailor-made tools or experiences to enhance your teaching.
