This specialized course for investigators, patrol officers, crime scene investigators who are responsible for the location, development, and documentation of fingerprint evidence. The methods taught in this course are widely used within the forensic community, designed to build upon the basic understanding of fingerprint development by teaching additional methods and procedures.

Students are expected to participate in practical hands-on exercises which build upon methods learned in lecture. This course has a written exam with a passing score of 80%.

Topics covered include:

- History and evolution of fingerprints in a forensic setting
- Fingerprint terminology
- Physical methods of advanced fingerprint processing for various materials
- Photographic documentation and preservation of fingerprint evidence
- Admission of fingerprint evidence in court

Lead Instructor: Detective Josh Mott is an experienced instructor and agency crime scene investigator. He is certified through the International Association for Identification as a Senior Crime Scene Analyst. He has over 2,000 hours of specialized training and has lectured at the University of Tennessee Forensic Anthropology Center in the field of post-mortem fingerprint development.
